Calman Learning Centre, Durham University
Friday 18th September 2015, 9:30am-4:00pm

This one day symposium for PhD students and ECR's undertaking qualitative health research will bring together experts in the field to share their insights and advice on writing up qualitative health research, writing for publication and writing for different audiences. There will also be the opportunity for you to present your research at the symposium, either in a '3 Minute Thesis' style format, or as a poster.

We are pleased to announce the speakers for this symposium, which is kindly supported by The Wellcome Trust, are:

Professor Jonathan Gabe (Royal Holloway University of London), Editor for the journal Sociology of Health and Illness, will speak about publishing qualitative health research, touching on barriers to publishing, dealing with rejections and revisions, and writing up mixed-methods research.

Jennifer Jeffes (Durham University), will share her expertise on engaging with policy makers and parliament, and strategies for writing for such audiences.

The symposium is also the perfect opportunity for you to showcase your research, either as part of the '3 Minute Thesis' session, or as a poster. Not only will this be an opportunity for you to test out your ideas, network and get supportive feedback, but there will also be a prize for the best poster and oral presentation. Applications are welcome on any aspect of your research. A 250 word abstract submission for either of the sessions should be emailed to qhrwgn@gmail.com by Friday 21st August at 5pm, clearly stating whether you would like to be considered for a poster or oral '3 Minute Thesis' presentation.

Places at the event are free however, are limited, so early booking is advisable. To register for the symposium, please go to <https://www.eventbrite.co.uk/e/qualitative-health-research-writing-group-network-symposium-registration-17844906596>
